Oblongotus Eccentrica Musicorum

Robert John Magnuson 2023

Approximate duration: 2:44

I wish attribution to include my name, date, and title of composition, as are listed in each score. I request that any public performance of any work I have released be recorded to video with sound, and that recording be forwarded to me (as video file or website URL of video). Please use the "Contact $\mathrm{Me}^{\text {e form on my website listed below if you have a video of a per- }}$ formance, to arrange how I might receive such.

The members of the recorder family range (in 'tessitura') from piccolo to roughly tenor flute. I've used them occasionally, but here they are on full display. Besides finding niche use in ancient through baroque music, they used to be a popular American public school instrument in the elementary grade music program.

If possible, for all the recorder parts, I envision 2 players on each, i.e., 2 soprano, 2 alto, 2 tenors, etc.

In liu of the standard bassoon, I opted for a more 'flavorful' contrabasson, which - in its lower register - can sound akin to a large animal making territorial warning sounds.

The typically-curious title of this work suggests it is quirky, with, perhaps an "odd-ball feeling of meter". Don't presume the Latin-sounding words actually mean anything...
